Project Description	The project addressed the consequences of Russia’s military aggression against Ukraine, which led to an increase in the number of socially vulnerable children, especially orphans and children without parental care. As part of a charity campaign organized by the media company Pro Plus, funds were raised to improve living conditions for these children and were handed over to the Anita Ogulin Association and the Association of Friends of Youth (ZPM). The aim of the project was to provide a foster family with 8–10 children a comfortable, safe, and energy-efficient home with a total area of approximately 300 m². The house was built and equipped with energy-efficient systems for heating, lighting, and insulation, reducing the consumption of non-renewable energy sources and CO₂ emissions. The project improved the living conditions of the children, enabled them to access education and social services, and supported their integration into society, while also contributing to key sustainable development goals.
